Their Specialities—The Chalaless Wheel Plading Pavor Abroad—L. A. W. Politi-class Blucuss the Coming Election—Notes. The annual Eastern bicycle exhibition will open at the Grand Central Palace, Forty-third atreet and Lexington avenue, this evening. The show, which is the third held in this city under the auspices of the National Board of Trade of Rievele Manufacturers, has assumed such importance that every bicycle manufacturer and dealer in the country has sought space for representation. The promoters have this changed the location of the show from the Mad tion Square Garden in order to accommodate the vast crowd of tradesmen who wish to ex-

bibit their products.

The veteran rider, the novice, and the prospective wheelman are all interested in the new models and bjoycle equipments of the various makers, and the dealers have found that the best opportunity to display the latest improvements to the curious multitude is afforded the cycle show. Accordingly over 700 firms will The exhibition which opens to-night, will con tinue throughout next week, and every chance will be afforded riders and mechanical experts and improvement.

The exhibit is not confined solely to manufacturers of wheels, and while every variety of bicycle will be on show, the makers of all lines of sundries will be equally well represented. The exhibits will be shown on four floors. The first floor will be taken up mostly with the exhibits of machinery. Beginning on the second floor the leading manufacturers have spaces, and throughout the upper section of the building both dealers and sundry men occupy spaces. and the exhibits were unpacked and placed in order for to-night. Each of the leading firms proclaims its individuality by some specialty in the method of construction in its wheel, and such features will be on show to-night with electric light embellishments.

The New York show following the Lendon,

Paris, and Chicago exhibitions, enables the manufacturers to show the latest and most striking features designed for the coming season. While the changes in the general and important features of the '97 bicycle will vary very little from the '96 modes, the variety of crank, sprocket, and spoke attachments, tubing, saddies, and tires will offer opportunities to the bicycle student to make comparisons in manu facture. Contrary to expectations, few chain-less bicycles will be on show. It has been found impossible to turn out any number of these wheels this year, and as a consequence scant attention has been paid to the chainless type by wheels this year, and as a consequence scant attention has been paid to the chainless type by the manufacturers.

The tire items will have elaborate displays and the bicycle crank seeking a bunctureless tire will flud an almost endless variety to choose from. The manufacturers have not devoted the attention to gear cases this year that was expected, and few of the '97 wheels will be fitted with these contrivances. Road and track racing wheels will be shown in large quantilies, but little difference will be found in the weight of these machines.

It will be a disappointment to the bicycle souvenir cranks, to find that the prominent makers have agreed not to distribute any such mementos. This decision was arrived at, according to a well-known manufacturer, because it has been found that the horde of souvenir seekers are a detriment and obstruction at the various booths to persons who really seek to examine the merits of a bicycle.

The management of the show has set aside a section of the paiace for the exhibition of valuable trophies won by bicycle riders and athletes. This schibit will contain a varied assortment of valuable prizes captured by American representatives at home and abroad.

Throughout the forenoon of each day the palace will be closed to all except the exhibitors and their agents in order that these may have an opportunity of attending to their routine business. The doors will be thrown open to the public at 8 o'clock each evening.

The wheelmen in Europe who are greatly

The wheelmen in Europe who are greatly interested in the chainless bioyole are speculating about its future. It seems likely that an attempt will be made to find an American market for the challess wheels manufactured abroad this year. At the recent Stanley bicycle show held in England the challess wheel was shown and attracted general attention. The Scotish Cycles in describing it says:

"Several makers exhibited chainless machines en the Acatene principle, that is to say, driven by bevelled cog-wheel gearing, the shaft which transmits the power being a tube incasing the chain stay. What will be the future of this gearing we do not care to prophesy, but we fancy it will come into limited use at all events, as there are plenty of riders who are not in love with the chain, notwithstanding its merits in certain respects. Another very interesting chainless machine was the cam bicycle shown at the National, which is driven by a couple of three-throw cama, one on either side, of the bracket, and a couple of connecting rods, which are attached to short cranks on the resear axis. A single cam on one side was first tried, but did not answer so well as the double cam arrangement. Since the show we have had an opportunity of trying this machine, but, unfortunately, under such exceedingly unfavorable conditions of road and weather that we do not feel we have yet given it a thorough test. As under such exceedingly unfavorable condi-tions of road and weather that we do not feel we have yet given it a thorough test. As far as our experience went, however, it seemed to run very well. Of couse, with this system of driving, the height of gearing can only be an exact multiple of the diameter of the driving wheel. But by combining 2d, 28, and 30 inch driving wheels with two-throw, three-throw, and four-throw cams, an approximation to any desired gear can be obtained, and, if necessary, intermediate sizes of driving wheel, such as 27 inch and 29 inch, could be made. A pretty high speed has already been obtained with the cam machine on the track, and very probably it will be further improved in details."

The promoters of the American Cycle Racing Association, who represent the owners of the various bicycle tracks throughout the country, will hold a meeting at the Hotel Everett tonight. At a recent conference plans for the organization of a permanent association were outlined, and a committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws. This latter work has been accomplished, and it is anticipated that steps will be taken to-night to formally organize the association and make public she objects of its formation. The claim that the movement to band together the various track owners is not intended as in any way antagonistic to the L. A. W. is still maintained, but until the new body declares its objects and plans openly it will be viewed with suspicion by members of the L. A. W. and racing men.

PORTLAND, Feb. 5.—At a meeting of the Ex-ecutive Board of the Maine Division, L. A. W., last night, Chief Consul Abner W. Lowell was authorized to represent the divison at the Na-tional Assembly in Albany next week. He goes unpledged in the choice of President, and will carry the proxies of three other delegates to which the Maine division is entitled.

carry the proxies of three other delegates to which the Maine division is entitled.

The political situation in the L. A. W. has been stirred up by the arrival in town of prominent Western wheelmen on their way to attend the annual meeting of the league at Albany and the bleycle show here. While Sterling Elliott, the President of the L. A. W., manifests confidence that his reflection is assured, recent developments indicate that I. B. Potter's strength is increasing in all sections of the country. Howard E. Raymond of the Illinois division of the league, who arrived in town on Thursday, thinks well of Potter's chances. He says that the taik about the West withholding the promise of its votes until the meeting at Albany, for the purpose of springing a Western candidate, will not amount to anything. In the event of such a move he states that a combination of Eastern forces could readily defeat the scheme, E. S. Hartwell of Benver, the Secretary of the League, who is a candidate for re-election on the Potter ticket, is in town. He stated to a Sun reporter least night that he believes Mr. Pytter will carry the entire Western vote. He defeates is in favor of the election of the New York. Chief Consul. He feels that Potter's views in favor of iocal option for Sunday racing will awing the entire Western vote. Candidate Potter, when asked yesterday if his ticket was made up, stated that his division has decided on to choice for candidates for Vice-Presidents. It has developed that A. C. Morrison of Milwaukee will not be placed on either icket, but it is thought that a Pennsylvania man will be chosen for the First Vice-Presidents. It has developed that A. C. Morrison of Elliott's strength. Potter's riends claim that if he is defeated it will be solely the result of the methods of his campaign committee.

FOR MORRIS PARK STAKES. Twenty-nine Sabscriptions Received for th Metropolitan Handlenp.

Nominations for the stakes of the Westches ter Racing Association, which closed last Tues day, show that Morris Park is as popular with owners and trainers as its two Long Island rivals. With the announcement of entries for the Metropolitan Handleap, which has received twenty-nine subscriptions, the entries for th three big spring struggles are complete. Al-Morris Park event falls two short of the Graves end contest, and sixteen less than for the Sheepshead Bay event, the fact that the first named opens the sport is undoubtedly respon sible for the shortage.

The most striking feature of the Metropoli-

KNEERS GUILTY OF FRAUD. Sentenced to Nine Months' Imprisonment

BERLIN, Feb. 5.-The hearing of the appeal of Robert T. Kneebs, the American trotting horse owner, was continued to-day. Veterinary exowner, was continued to-day. Veterinary experts Mills and Klingner differed with Prof. Eggeling, who had produced a plaster cast of the jaw of the mare Bethel in support of his contention that the mare he examined in America, alleged to have been Bethel, was not as old as Bethel would have been. Herr Klingner maintained that it was impossible to declare the age of the horse by examination of the cast of the jaw produced by Prof. Eggeling, which could be that of a horse born in 1886.

Upon the conclusion of the taking of testimony, the Public Prosecutor recited all the facts of the case from his point of view. He wound up by declaring that the evidence plainly showed the guilt of the accused, and he demanded that the Court sontence Kneebs to nine months' imprisonment and to paya fine of 1,000 marks ($250).

Counsel for the defence pleaded that his client was not guilty, and controverted the argument of the Public Prosecutor.

At 10:30 o'clock to-night the Court adjudged that Kneebs had been guilty of fraud. The horse was ordered to be seized, and the prisoner sentenced to nine months' imprisonment. Seven months in which Kneebs has been in preventive custody is considered part of the sentence. Kneebs was also fined 1,000 marks, and condemned to lose his civil rights for two years.

Kneebs reserves the right to appeal from the decision.

FIGHTING. Jack McAulific a Manager-Has Left th

Bing for Good. Jack McAuliffe, who is now a full fledged manager, returned to this city yesterday from San Francisco after an absence of nearly seven months. He is naturally brimful of confidence as to the fistic ability of Tom Sharkey, whose interests he now pilots. The sailor was ex-pected to accompany McAuliffe, but Jack con-cinded to let him rusticate at Vallejo, in southern California. According to McAuliffe, Sharkey will not be here until after the contest between Corbett and Fitzsimmons. He will not match him against Maher just yet, but will have Sharkey at the ringside in Nevada ready to take the place of either Fitzsimmons or Corbett should either one of them fail to show up.

"Sharkey is very anxious to fight Maner, said McAuliffe to THE SUN reporter yesterday, "but I have made up my mind not to put him eaid McAuliffe to The Sun reporter yesterday, "but I have made up my mind not to put him against any one except Fits or Corbett. He is entitled to the first chance, for he has met both of them. If we fail to get on such a match we will go to England. I have an offer of a $10,000 purse from a prominent English club for Sharkey to meet some good heavy weight during Derby week."

"Does the announcement you made a short time ago that you had retired from the ring and which appeared in The Sun, still boil good?"

"I toes, and I may say that I retire with much regret. When I fought Jimmy Carroll at 'Frisco I was in fine condition. In the second round my hand went back on me, and all I could do to save myself was to be careful and score when an opportunity offered. I was just as fast as ever, but I couldn't use my arm with any effect. After that fight I made up my mind to quit the business and take to managing. I have been the light weight champion for twelve years, and think I have outlived my usefulness in defending the title. I will give up the best to the next best man. I cannot say who it will be positively, but it lies between Chariey McKeever, Kid McPartland, and Kid Lavigne. I expect to have a benefit in this city, and will box each of them a round. The man who shows up the best against me will receive the belt."

Resides Sharkey, McAuliffe has also under his wing Harry Peppers of California, colored, a clever middle weight, and Jimmy Anthony of Australia. McAuliffe wants to arrange a contest between Jimmy Harry and Anthony at 112 pounds for the bantam championship. McAuliffe wants the battle to go to a finish, and says that Dan Stuart will offer a purse if one is arranged. McAuliffe wants the would like to meet "Parson" Davies this afternoon at the Illustrated News office to arrange a "go." He also wants to pit Peppers against Dan Creedon at 158 pounds.

Regarding Sharkey's opinion of the big fight, Jack says that Sharkey fancies Corbett.

STUART ON HIS WAY TO NEVADA The Big Battle Will Take Pince at Rose

CARSON, Feb. 5 .- William Wheelock, Dan Stuart's representative, arrived here yesterday. He showed a telegram from Stuart saying that he would reach here on next Sunday or Monday. It is positively stated that Fitzsimmons will train at Snaw's Springs and Corbett at Steamboat Springs, both resorts being placed in first-class condition. In betting Corbett is a little the Virginia City people have now abandoned the Storey county to see that they get the mill as against Reno, and the combined forces can repeal the bill if Carson is not selected as the battle ground.

Denison, Feb. 5.—Dan Stuart left for Nevada to-day, He said that the battle will either take place at Reno or Carson City. He further said: "There will be no hitch in the programme. There are no technicalities, no legal interferences, nor anything to look for in that direction. I shall erect an amphitheatre to seat 25,000 persons and expect it to be fuil. I shall arrange all details soon after reaching Nevada and will then announce the place where the contest will take place."

St. LOUIS, Feb. 5.—Tom Allen, the veteran pugillist of this city, announces his willingness to back "Denver" Ed Smith, who has just returned from South Africa, against Peter Maher or Joe Choynski for $2.500 a side and a purse offered by Dan Stuart, the fight to take place in Nevada the same week of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons battle. Smith is now in Pennsylvania, and Allen has written him to come to St. Louis at once.

The champion has not made up his mind when he will leave, but it will not be later than next Friday. Manager Julian will leave either today or next Monday to pick out a suitable Manager Brady is also making preparations for Corbett. He says Corbett will train in Ne-vada, and in addition to Jim McVey, Joe Cor-Jim Jeffrys, the big California heavy weight, to assist him. The fact that Billy Delaney will not be with Corbett points conclusively to the fact, as stated in Tite Sun some time ago, that the two are not on good terms.

two are not on good terms.

Fitzsimmons is quite angry over the reports going the rounds that he has signed new articles for his fight with Corbett. "The only articles I have signed," he said to a reporter of The Sun yesterday, "are those which I placed my signature to at Taylor's Hotel, lersey City, recently in the presence of Dan Stuart. Some one is trying to 'knock' me, but I won't be 'queered' by any of them."

INTERSCHOLASTIC CHESS.

Harvard Wine Two Games and Ties Cotumbia Grammar.

A large number of students silently watched the players in the interscholastic tournamentat De La Salle Institute yesterday. The struggle is growing more interesting each day owing to the close race for first honors between Colum bia Grammar, Sachs, Harvard, and De La Salle. The surprise of yesterday was the defeat of Engels of Columbia Grammar by Briggs of Condon. The former was so confident of winning that he became careless, and when he thought that he had his opponent checkmated he found out he had moved his queen in such a position as to enable Briggs to capture it, and he was forced to resign after forty-two moves. Engels claimed that a spectator told Briggs his move.

Ilarvard won two games, which again places the school a tie with Columbia Grammar for first place. Sachs won one and a half games, while Cutler lost two. Faik still holds the lead for individual honors, with Frankel a close second. Summaries follow:

Death of Charley Hadbourne.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Feb. 5.-Charles Rad bourne, who for many years was the pitcher for the Providence and Boston ball teams of the National League, died here at 1 o'clock to-day,

Charles Radbourne, who in his day was considered the most scientific pitcher in the coun try, was born in Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 9, 1853. He first came into prominence as a pitcher when he joined the Peoria Club in 1878. The next year he joined the Dubuque team, and later on in the season he went to Buffalo, where he was compelled to retire temporarily on ac-count of a lame arm. In 1881 he joined the Providence League team and made a phenomcount of a lame arm. In 1881 he joined the Providence League team and made a phenomenal record.

On Aug. 17, 1882, he pitched against the famous Detroits for seventeen innings without a run being scored by either side, and in the eighteenth "Rai" won the game by knocking the ball over the left-field fence for a home run. On one occasion Radbournes pitched nine innings for Providence in which not a single opponent reached first base in safety. The international contests, which are held annually under the auspices of the International Skating Union, have hitherto taken place in Europe, and the Canadians accordingly laid themselves out to make the present anniversary a red letter event. The privilege of holding the tournament on this side of the Atlantic was secured early last fail by the Amateur Skating Association of Canada, and since then the Montreal enthusiants, headed by Louis Rubenstein, have been hustling with such gratifying results that the present series of contests are international in fact as well as in name. The conditions differ considerably from those usually observed in America. All races are skated against time, the contestants starting in pairs. Each man has a separate path, and by an ingenious arrangement; the skater on the inside or smaller circle swings to the outer circle every lap, while the other man comes in, each thus covering the same distance without any danger of cellision or jockeying.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals are awarded to the competitors finishing respectively first, second, and third in each event, the piacings being figured out by a comparison of the times made. The competitor canturing three of the four international events wins the special champion gold medal and the title of "champion of the world in distance skating for 1897."

The programme winds up to-day with the following events:

George Barnard and J. T. Beckwith, two of the contestants in the recent amateur handicap ournament at continuous pool, played a match game of continuous pool last night at Daly's Brooklyn rooms on the table used in the tournament. The match was the outcome of the rivalry between the two players, they being clubmates in the Montauk Club.

As Beckwith was admittedly the superior player, he conceeded twenty-five points in a hun-dred. Barnard played very peorly at the start, dred. Barnard played very peorly at the start, and Heckwith soon held a long lead, overcoming the handicap in the first two frames. Then Harnard began to improve, and, playing safety whenever in doubt, gradually caught his opponent and won by enly four points.

The Tournament Committee has decided that the game which Percy Johnson was to have played on Wednesday night with Harvey Roberts, and which Johnson claimed owing to Roberts's non-sppearance, will have to be played. As Roberts was excused by the committee on the night in question, Johnson has agreed to meet Roberts and they will decide the game this afternoon.

Charles Irving, an eld-time crack amateur pool player, is the latest entry to the championship pool tournament, twhich will be decided next month. Jos. Jacobs of the Liederkranz Club is also likely to compete.

Maurice and Johns's billiard parior was the scene of a hotly contested continuous pool game. The players were William Piggott. Peter Flynn's young champion, and George Hamburger. The match was for $50 a side, Piggott being in receipt of the odds of 25 points in 200, Hamburger won by four points, the score being 200 to 171. Peter French acted as referee.

East Side Socialists Denounce the Lodge Restriction Bill.

The United Hebrew Trades, representing the ast side Socialist trade unions, is against the Lodge bill amending the immigration laws. It has made the discovery, its members say, that the bill is the creation of the capitalists, and a mass meeting, under the direction of the United Hebrew Trades, was held in Cooper Union last evening to denounce the measure. The hall was evening to denounce the measure. The hallway filled, about half the audience being women and girls. Charles F. Matchett, who was the Socialist candidate for President of the United States, was expected to speak, but did not appear.

The meeting was called to order by Abraham Shapiro, Mecretary of the United Hebrew Trades, who, in introducing Daniel De Leon as the first speaker, called the audience "ladies and gents." De Leon declared the bill a definagoig, vicious, and fatuous measure. The other cational clause, he said, was a pretence. He cited an alleged instance of the drawing of a jury here where eleven out of twelve of the illustrate eleven, he said, were native Americans, and the only one who could read was born in Germany. De Leon denounced the newspapers and advised the audience to refrant from reading about the Bradley Martin ball and the Seeley dinner, but to read instead the reports of proceedings in Congress.

A speaker named London also denounced the newspapers. He extended his tirade to include the clergy, the churches, and about everything else he could think of. Some of his remarks verged upon the blasphemous, but these did not take well, and he changed his tactics, launching into a flery social revolution speech.

The meeting adjourned after adopting resolutions denouncing the Lodge bill. filled, about half the audience being women and

MEYER DEFEATS BRADLEY.

The New Utrecht Wing Shot Wine a 100. Bird Match at Larchmont. C. M. Meyer of the New Utrecht Gun Club, who was matched to shoot W. A. H. Stafford at the Westminster Kennel Club grounds on Thursday and failed to appear, shot a 100-bird pigeon match with D. J. Bradley on the grounds of the Larchmont Yacht Club vesterday and after an exciting contest defeated him by one bird, scoring 86 to his opponent's 85. Both men shot from the twenty-nine-yard mark, with a shot from the twenty-nine-yard mark, with a twenty-one-yard boundary, and what little wind there was was favorable to the shooters, being light from the eastward. Bradley not long ago defeated Edgar Gibbs Murphy. In the Murphy match Bradley received a handicap of two yards at the score and 10 dead birds to start with. Murphy though the had an easy thing, but was actually beaten on even terms. For this and other reasons Bradley was the favorite in the betting yesterday, and as a matter of fact, killed all of his birds, but he had the hard luck to see all 15, when were sored as misses, die outside of the boundary. Meyer also shot a good up-hil race, and any number of his birds which were scored as misses also died outside.

In the first string of 25 birds Bradley killed 21 to Meyer's 22. The latter caught Bradley in the sixtleth round and took the lead in the sixty-eighth round, when Bradley missed a fast right driver. Meyer held his lead to the end and won by a score of 86 to 85. Summary C. M. Meyer, 20 vards.
